Red Flags in Employment Issues – How to Spot Them, and What to do When They Arise

Few employers have an attorney on site to consult with for routine employee matters. But getting counsel involved in the early stages of employment matters can head off bigger (and more costly) problems down the road. Do you know when to make that call? We will discuss how to spot the “red flags” that come up in unemployment claims, workers’ compensation claims, employee discipline and terminations, and discrimination charges, and when to get legal counsel involved.
